Can I enrol a child at any school in Queenstown?

Not necessarily. Most state schools in Queenstown have enrolment schemes which help the School manage its roll. A school with an enrolment scheme has a home zone, which is a geographically defined area around the school.

- Students living inside the zone are guaranteed a place at the school.
- Students who live outside the zone can apply to enrol but acceptance of their application is subject to places being available for them – and if there are fewer places available than there are applicants, their acceptance is subject to the outcome of a pre-enrolment process called a ballot.

Arrowtown School, Shotover Primary School and Remarkables Primary School already have enrolment schemes. We are currently consulting over introducing an enrolment scheme for Queenstown Primary School and for Te Kura Whakatipu o Kawarau in 2022. This means the Remarkables Primary School enrolment scheme will also be amended.

How do I know what the home zone is for schools in Queenstown?

- All of the current enrolment schemes can be found at Find a school. This includes Arrowtown School, Shotover Primary School and the current scheme for Remarkables Primary School. Here you'll be able to view the home zone on a map of the local area and its written description.
- Information about enrolment schemes is also available on each school's website, or through contacting the school for information.
- We are currently developing new schemes for Queenstown Primary School and Te Kura Whakatipu o Kawarau, and amending the scheme for Remarkables Primary School. Information about these proposed changes can be found at <https://consultation.education.govt.nz/education/enrolment-schemes-wakatipu-basin>.

Why do Queenstown Primary School and Te Kura Whakatipu o Kawarau need enrolment schemes?

An enrolment scheme is a tool to help schools manage the roll. This is needed to prevent the risk of overcrowding and ensure that the school does not have more students than its facilities can cope with. It's important that Te Kura Whakatipu o Kawarau opens with an enrolment scheme so it can grow in a managed way. New schools are often situated in areas of new greenfields housing development that will grow over time, and it's important that local students have access to their local school.

Why are the schemes for Arrowtown School and Shotover Primary School not being reconsidered?

Changes are not required for these two enrolment schemes at this time.

What is a home zone?

A defined geographical area, with its boundaries indicated by street names and numbers among other features.

Home zones are consulted over before being finalised – we need to understand any geographic, access or community implications before these come into effect. If you have any comment about the proposed home zones for Queenstown Primary School, Te Kura Whakatipu o Kawarau or the amendment for Remarkables Primary School, please complete the survey, or email us at WakatipuBasin.EnrolmentSchemes@education.govt.nz.

If we live inside the home zone of a state school, does that school have to accept our enrolment application?

Yes. Living in the enrolment scheme home zone means you have entitlement to enrol your child at that school. It's important to note that schools may ask for proof that you genuinely live at the address in the home zone, and it's your responsibility to provide evidence to show this.

If we live outside the home zone of a state school, can we still get my child into that school?

Not necessarily. Schools can enrol some out of zone students, but only if the Board of Trustees determines it has space available after all in-zone students are enrolled or planned for.

There are processes that Boards follow to enrol out of zone students, and these only happen at certain time of the year. More information can be found about these processes here or by contacting the School for more information.

If we live one street or a few street numbers away from a school's home zone boundary, can my child still attend the school?

No. You are considered to be outside the zone and should refer to the question above.

My children attend Remarkables Primary School, which is changing the boundaries of its home zone. Currently we live inside the zone, but we won't when it changes. Will my children be able to continue attending the school?

Yes. When a home zone changes, current students who are living at an address that becomes out-of-zone are allowed to continue at the school.

The enrolment scheme legislation allows for transitional arrangements for families impacted by zoning changes. This will be introduced for Remarkables Primary School and will mean that in certain circumstances, siblings of current Remarkables students living in this area, may also be entitled to enrol at Remarkables Primary School. This is commonly known as 'grandparenting'.

What is grandparenting or a transitional arrangement?

A transitional arrangement (often referred to as grandparenting) can be included in new or amended zones to help reduce the impact of enrolment schemes to families that are already enrolled at the school. This means that younger siblings can enrol at the same school as their older brother or sister and gives families certainty about their enrolment eligibility, without having to wait for an out of zone process. It means these students would be treated as in-zone and have the same entitlement to enrol as if they lived in the home zone.

Transitional arrangements do not apply to everyone – criteria must be met. This is outlined for both Remarkables Primary School and Queenstown Primary School below.

How will grandparenting (transitional arrangement) work for Queenstown Primary School?

We are considering including a transitional agreement for Queenstown Primary School. This will be a transitional arrangement for a new enrolment scheme.

From 2022, if approved, the transitional arrangement applies for new enrolments if you can answer 'yes' to both of the questions below:

Criteria to be met	Yes or No?
New student enrolling lives outside the home zone of Queenstown Primary School
New student enrolling has a sibling already enrolled at Queenstown Primary School at the time the enrolment scheme is implemented (expected to be start of Term 1, 2022 – exact date to be confirmed)

If both criteria are met, the new student enrolling will be entitled to enrol and attend Queenstown Primary School. The School may request evidence to verify the information before enrolling a new student under the transitional arrangement.

Remarkables Primary School – transitional arrangement for an amended enrolment scheme

From 2022, if approved, the transitional arrangement applies for new enrolments if you can answer 'yes' to all the questions below:

Criteria to be met	Yes or No?
New student enrolling lives outside the amended home zone of Remarkables Primary School

New student enrolling has a sibling who was enrolled at Remarkables Primary School at the time the amended enrolment scheme was adopted (expected to be end of 2021 – exact date to be confirmed)
The sibling already enrolled at Remarkables Primary School, at the time the amendment is adopted (expected to be end of 2021) lives inside the home zone as it was before the amendment
New student enrolling lives in the home zone as it was before the amendment, at the time of their enrolment

If all four criteria are met, the new student enrolling will be entitled to enrol and attend Remarkables Primary School. The School may request evidence to verify the information before enrolling a new student under the transitional arrangement.
